OZIAS A. MOORE
Assistant Professor of Management
Lehigh University

Ozias Moore joined the Department of Management at Lehigh University in 2016. He received his B.S. in Business Administration from the University of Pittsburgh, an M.S. in Engineering from the University of Pennsylvania, and an M.S. and Ph.D. in Human Resource Studies from Cornell University.

Ozias’ research spans areas in organizational behavior and human resource management. His major research interests focus on team and multi-team effectiveness. He is particularly interested in the multi-level effects of multiple team membership on team processes, emergent states, and team outcomes. His secondary area of research, which shifts from the team to individual processes and outcomes, focuses on the effects of individual differences that affect perceptions, judgments, and performance.
