Marsha Vacirca is the Program Director for MercuryGate University where her major focus is partnering with universities both in the US as well as International, exposing students in a rigorous Logistics and Supply Chain program to the company’s transportation management software. An advocate for education, Marsha has always sought ways to support students with the transition from high school to college and from college to post graduate school or the workforce. She spent her early career as a Higher Education Administrator where she focused on matching students with rigorous and competitive college programs that would help prepare them for not only a successful college experience but also a successful career post-graduation.

Education:
Master’s degree: Communication and Information Management, Bay Path University, Longmeadow, MA Bachelor’s degree in Business Administration (Magna Cum Laude), American International College, Springfield, MA Certified lean six sigma, UT Dallas, TX